

I feel the no call lists laws should be tougher. I never gave permission to any company to solicit me in the first place, or to use my personal information for anything other than the original transaction. I certainly never gave permission for my information to be sold on lists. I am tired of being harrassed.